

Luca Sironi // Closed for Vacations

"The institutional navigation on Garda lake is active from March to October. During the winter months the ferries sleeps in the shipyards or moored in some port.

Also ticket booths, located in major docks on the shores of the lake, remains closed. These booths are small anonymous prefabricated buildings, located nearby the docks, and in summer are visited by thousands of tourists.

Then comes the winter. The winter is all a different story. Most of the small towns on the lake are semi-deserts, ghost towns. The wind is cold, it gets dark early and the waters appear more sinister." -Luca Sironi
