

Gert Robijns // Re-Shadow

In his works Robijns makes you aware of simple scientific principles and findings. Images, for example, take shape in your brain. A wink of the eye makes reality leap from left to right. With small interventions Gert Robijns potters about the construction - that reality is after all - and forces our senses to re-construct the reception of our perception. His search for physical laws that challenge our cultural conventions, produced an impressive series of poetic work, of which this book is the first survey.
