

Jonathan Hernandez // Se Busca Recompensa

Reward Wanted or "Se Busca recompensa" encompassed three years of gathering lost dog leaflets posted in Mexico City. This collection of 104 documents added up in idle times during which I traveled from one place to the next, or simply strolled aimlessly through different parts of the city. The result conveys a tragicomic network of personal and emotive messages, and also transpires a political and social plot. The kidnapping of people is still common in Mexico, this habitual practice derives in new modalities, such as the express abduction of dogs.
