

Michael Spooner // A Clinic for the Exhausted In Search of an Antipodean Vitality.
Edmond & Corrigan and an Itinerant Architecture

A Clinic for the Exhausted commences from a vision of a landmark Australian architectural icon, RMIT University Building 8 by Edmond & Corrigan, apprehended as an ocean liner taking leave of its concrete moorings. Conceived as both a literary and a architectural project, A Clinic for the Exhausted ministers to an architecture of unforeseeable effect, and attempts to ascertain how one can architecturally act on behalf of the unknowable.

Publisher: AADR. 240 pages. 2013. Format: Hardback. 19cm × 24cm.
72 black and white illustrations. ISBN: 9783887783921. 36,00 €.